HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

International equity markets navigated a complex landscape from late 2024 through early 2025, shaped by divergent regional economic trends, evolving monetary policies, and renewed geopolitical tensions. Early-year volatility and shifting U.S. policy temporarily disrupted the link between company fundamentals and stock performance — particularly for businesses tied to U.S. demand. However, as tariff concerns subsided and fundamentals regained focus in the second quarter, markets stabilized. Amid these fluctuations, the Hood River International Opportunity Fund Retirement Share Class (HRITX) rebounded alongside the broader equity recovery, returning +17.17% for the 12 months ending June 30, 2025, versus +18.34% for the MSCI AC World Index ex US Small Cap.

WHAT FACTORS INFLUENCED PERFORMANCE

Stock selection was the primary driver of relative results during the period. Notably, strong contributions came from the consumer discretionary, healthcare, and utilities sectors, while financials, information technology and materials detracted from performance.

Through it all, our investment philosophy and disciplined process remain our foundation. We continue to rely on a bottom-up approach to identify companies with durable, long-term earnings growth. While market dislocations may obscure fundamentals in the short term, they tend to reassert themselves just as swiftly. We believe our edge lies in remaining true to our process and staying alert to the best opportunities in the most inefficient segments of the market.

HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM SINCE INCEPTION?*

The $10,000 chart reflects a hypothetical $10,000 investment in the class of shares noted. The chart uses total return NAV performance and assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. Fund expenses, including management fees and other expenses, were deducted.
